Mr. Blair submitted the following resolution for consideration; which was ordered to be printed:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby, requested to inform the Senate under what provisions of the law of April 20, 1871, if any, and if not under that law, by what authority he has caused the Constitution and laws of the United States and the constitution and laws of the State of South Carolina to be set aside and martial law declared, and the writ of habeas corpus suspended in the counties of Spartanburgh, Marion, York, Newberry, Chester, Laurens, Fairfield, Lancaster, and Chesterfield, in the State of South Carolina, whereby the courts and civil authorities are unable to afford protection to the lives, liberties, and rights of the people therein, and all of them left at the mercy of such military subordinates as he has seen, or may see, fit to place over them. He is especially requested to lay before the Senate all the acts of insurrection, resistance, or opposition to the laws of the United States committed in each of these counties at any time after the 20th day of April, 1871, prior to the date of his proclamation of martial law, giving the character of the offenses, the facts relative thereto, and the names of the offenders, so far as ascertained. He is further requested to lay before the Senate any cases of resistance to the execution of the process of the civil courts, or the officers either of the United States or of the State of South Carolina, by any of the citizens of any of the counties in which the guarantees of constitutional liberty have been annulled by his proclamation aforesaid since the passage of the act of April 20, 1871, aforesaid, and that he give the names of all of said citizens who have been arrested or imprisoned under and by virtue of the authority conferred by his proclamation, with the violations of law with which each is charged and the dates at which it is alleged they committed the offenses for which they were so arrested and imprisoned; and that he give the Senate information as to all the statements of facts on which he acted in issuing his proclamation aforesaid, giving the names of his informants, their statements when made to him in writing, and the substance of them when made verbally, so that Congress can determine what steps are necessary to restore to the citizens of the counties aforesaid, and especially to those who are not guilty of offenses against the United States, the equal protection of the laws with the people of other portions of the country, under the forms prescribed by the Constitution of the United States.

Whereupon

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Porter, his secretary :

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

In addressing my third annual message to the law-making branch of the Government, it is gratifying to be able to state that during the past year success has generally attended the effort to execute all laws found upon the statute-books. The policy has been, not to inquire into the wisdom of laws already enacted, but to learn their spirit and intent, and to enforce them accordingly.

The past year has, under a wise Providence, been one of general prosperity to the nation. It has, however, been attended with more than usual chastisements in the loss of life and property, by storm and fire. These disasters have served to call forth the best elements of human nature in our country, and to develop a friendship for us on the part of foreign nations which goes far toward alleviating the distresses occasioned by these calamities. The benevolent, who have so generously shared their means with the victims of these misfortunes, will reap their reward in the consciousness of having performed a noble act, and in receiving the grateful thanks of men, women, and children whose sufferings they have relieved.

The relations of the United States with foreign powers continue to be friendly. The year has been an eventful one in witnessing two great nations, speaking one language and having one lineage, settling, by peaceful arbitration, disputes of long standing, and liable at any time to bring those nations into bloody and costly conflict. An example has thus been set which, if successful in its final issue, may be followed by other civilized nations, and finally be the means of returning to productive industry millions of men now maintained to settle the disputes of nations by the bayonet and the broadside.

I transmit herewith a copy of the treaty alluded to, which has been concluded, since the adjournment of Congress, with Her Britannic Majesty, and a copy of the protocols of the conferences of the commissions by whom it was negotiated. This treaty provides methods for adjusting the questions pending between the two nations.

Various questions are to be adjusted by arbitration. I recommend Congress at an early day to make the necessary provision for the tribunal at Geneva, and for the several commissioners, on the part of the United States, called for by the treaty.

His Majesty the King of Italy, the President of the Swiss Confederation, and His Majesty the Emperor of Brazil, have each consented, on the joint request of the two powers, to name an arbitrator for the tribunal at Geneva. I have caused my thanks to be suitably expressed for the readiness with which the joint request has been complied with, by the appointment of gentlemen of eminence and learning to these important positions.

His Majesty the Emperor of Germany has been pleased to comply with the joint request of the two governments, and has consented to act as the arbitrator of the disputed water boundary between the United States and Great Britain.

The contracting parties in the treaty have undertaken to regard as between themselves certain principles of public law, for which the United States have contended from the commencement of their history. They have also agreed to bring those principles to the knowledge of the other maritime powers and to invite them to accede to them. Negotiations are going on as to the form of the note by which the invitation is to be extended to the other powers.

I recommend the legislation necessary on the part of the United States to bring into operation the articles of the treaty relating to the fisheries, and to the other matters touching the relations of the United States toward the British North American possessions, to become operative so soon as the proper legislation shall be had on the part of Great Britain and its possessions. It is much to be desired that this legislation may become operative before the fishermen of the United States begin to make their arrangements for the coming season.

I have addressed a communication, of which a copy is transmitted herewith, to the governors of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin, urging upon the governments of those States, respectively, the necessary action on their part to carry into effect the object of the article of the treaty which contemplates the use of the canals, on either side, connected with the navigation of the lakes and rivers forming the boundary, on terms of equality by the inhabitants of both countries. It is hoped that the importance of the object and the benefits to flow therefrom will secure the speedy approval and legislative sanction of the States concerned.

I renew the recommendation for an appropriation for determining the true position of the forty-ninth parallel of latitude where it forms the boundary between the United States and the British North American possessions, between the Lake of the Woods and the summit of the Rocky Mountains. The early action of Congress on this recommendation would put it in the power of the War Department to place a force in the field during the next summer.

The resumption of diplomatic relations between France and Germany have enabled me to give directions for the withdrawal of the protection extended to Germans in France by the diplomatic and consular representatives of the United States in that country. It is just to add that the delicate duty of this protection has been performed by the minister and the consul general at Paris, and the various consuls in France, under the supervision of the latter, with great kindness as well as with prudence and tact. Their course has received the commendation of the German government, and has wounded no susceptibility of the French.

The government of the Emperor of Germany continues to manifest a friendly feeling toward the United States, and a desire to harmonize with the moderate and just policy which this Government maintains in its relations with Asiatic powers, as well as with the South American republics. I have given assurances that the friendly feelings of that government are fully shared by the United States.

The ratifications of the consular and naturalization conventions with the Austro-Hungarian Empire have been exchanged.

I have been officially informed of the annexation of the States of the Church to the Kingdom of Italy, and the removal of the capital of that kingdom to Rome. In conformity with the established policy of the United States, I have recognized this change. The ratifications of the new treaty of commerce between the United States and Italy have been exchanged. The two powers have agreed in this treaty that private property at sea shall be exempt from capture in case of war between the two powers. The United States have spared no opportunity of incorporating this rule into the obligation of nations.

The Forty-first Congress, at its third session, made an appropriation for the organization of a mixed commission for adjudicating upon the claims of citizens of the United States against Spain, growing out of the insurrection in Cuba. That commission has since been organized. I transmit herewith the correspondence relating to its formation and its jurisdiction. It is to be hoped that this commission will afford the claimants a complete remedy for their injuries.

It has been made the agreeable duty of the United States to preside over a conference at Washington between the plenipotentiaries of Spain and the allied South American republics, which has resulted in an armistice, with the reasonable assurance of a permanent peace.

The intimate friendly relations which have so long existed between the United States and Russia continue undisturbed. The visit of the third son of the Emperor is a proof that there is no desire on the part of his government to diminish the cordiality of those relations. The hospitable reception which has been given to the Grand Duke is a proof that on our side we share the wishes of that government. The inexcusable course of the Russian minister at Washington rendered it necessary to ask his recall, and to decline to longer receive that functionary as a diplomatic representative. It was impossible with self-respect, or with a just regard to the dignity of the country, to permit Mr. Catacazy to continue to hold intercourse with this Government after his personal abuse of Government officials, and during his persistent interferences, through various means, with the relations between the United States and other powers. In accordance with my wishes, this Government has been relieved of further intercourse with Mr. Catacazy, and the management of the affairs of the imperial legation has passed into the hands of a gentleman entirely unobjectionable.

With Japan we continue to maintain intimate relations. The cabinet of the Mikado has, since the close of the last session of Congress, selected citizens of the United States to serve in offices of importance in several departments of government. I have reason to think that this selection is due to an appreciation of the disinterestedness of the policy which the United States have pursued toward Japan. It is our desire to continue to maintain this disinterested and just policy with China as well as Japan. The correspondence transmitted herewith shows that there is no disposition on the part of this Government to swerve from its established course.

Prompted by a desire to put an end to the barbarous treatment of our shipwrecked sailors on the Corean coast, I instructed our minister at Peking to endeavor to conclude a convention with Corea for securing the safety and humane treatment of such mariners.

Admiral Rodgers was instructed to accompany him, with a sufficient force to protect him in case of need.

A small surveying party sent out, on reaching the coast, was treacherously attacked at a disadvantage. Ample opportunity was given for explanation and apology for the insult. Neither came. A force was then landed. After an arduous march over a rugged and difficult country, the forts from which the outrages had been committed were reduced by a gallant assault and were destroyed. Having thus punished the criminals, and having vindicated the honor of the flag, the expedition returned, finding it impracticable, under the circumstances, to conclude the desired convention. I respectfully refer to the correspondence relating thereto, herewith submitted, and leave the subject for such action as Congress may see fit to take.

The republic of Mexico has not yet repealed the very objectionable laws establishing what is known as the "Free Zone," on the frontier of the United States. It is hoped that this may yet be done, and also that more stringent measures may be taken by that republic for restraining lawless persons on its frontiers. I hope that Mexico, by its own action, will soon relieve this Government of the difficulties experienced from these causes.

Our relations with the various republics of Central and South America continue, with one exception, to be cordial and friendly.

I recommend some action by Congress regarding the overdue installments under the award of the Venezuelan claims commission of 1866. The internal dissensions of this government present no justification for the absence of effort to meet their solemn treaty obligations.

The ratification of an extradition treaty with Nicaragua has been exchanged.

It is a subject for congratulation that the great empire of Brazil has taken the initiatory step toward the abolition of slavery. Our relations with that empire, always cordial, will naturally be made more so by this act. It is not too much to hope that the government of Brazil may hereafter find it for its interest, as well as intrinsically right, to advance toward entire emancipation more rapidly than the present act contemplates.

The true prosperity and greatness of a nation is to be found in the elevation and education of its laborers.

It is a subject for regret that the reforms in this direction, which were voluntarily promised by the statesmen of Spain, have not been carried out in its West India colonies. The laws and regulations for the apparent abolition of slavery in Cuba and Porto Rico leave most of the laborers in bondage, with no hope of release until their lives become a burden to their employers.

I desire to direct your attention to the fact that citizens of the United States, or persons claiming to be citizens of the United States, are large holders, in foreign lands, of this species of property, forbidden by the fundamental law of their alleged country. I recommend to Congress to provide, by stringent legislation, a suitable remedy against the holding, owning, or dealing in slaves, or being interested in slave property in foreign lands, either as owners, hirers, or mortgagers, by citizens of the United States.

It is to be regretted that the disturbed condition of the island of Cuba continues to be a source of annoyance and of anxiety. The existence of a protracted struggle in such close proximity to our own territory, without apparent prospect of an early termination, cannot be other than an object of concern to a people who, while abstaining from interference in the affairs of other powers, naturally desire to see every country in the undisturbed enjoyment of peace, liberty, and the blessings of free institutions.

Our naval commanders in Cuban waters have been instructed, in case it should become necessary, to spare no effort to protect the lives and property of bona-fide American citizens, and to maintain the dignity of the flag.

It is hoped that all pending questions with Spain growing out of the affairs in Cuba may be adjusted in the spirit of peace and conciliation which has hitherto guided the two powers in their treatment of such questions.

To give importance, and to add to the efficiency of our diplomatic relations with Japan and China, and to further aid in retaining the good opinion of those peoples, and to secure to the United States its share of the commerce destined to flow between those nations and the balance of the commercial world, I earnestly recommend that an appropriation be made to support at least four American youths in each of those countries, to serve as a part of the official family of our ministers there. Our representatives would not even then be placed upon an equality with the representatives of Great Britain and of some other powers. As now situated, our representatives in Japan and China have to depend, for interpreters and translators, upon natives of those countries who know our language imperfectly, or procure for the occasion the services of employés in foreign business houses, or the interpreters to other foreign ministers.

I would also recommend liberal measures for the purpose of supporting the American lines of steamers now plying between San Francisco and Japan and China, and the Australian line—almost our only remaining lines of ocean steamers—and of increasing their services.

The national debt has been reduced to the extent of eighty-six million fifty-seven thousand one hundred and twenty-six dollars and eighty cents during the year, and by the negotiation of national bonds at a lower rate of interest, the interest on the public debt has been so far diminished that now the sum to be raised for the interest account is nearly seventeen million dollars less than on the 1st of March, 1869. It was highly desirable that this rapid diminution should take place, both to strengthen the credit of the country and to convince its citizens of their entire ability to meet every dollar of liability without bankrupting them. But in view of the accomplishment of these desirable ends; of the rapid development of the resources of the country; its increasing ability to meet large demands, and the amount already paid, it is not desirable that the present resources of the country should continue to be taxed in order to continue this rapid payment. I therefore recommend a modification of both the tariff and internal tax law. I recommend that all taxes from internal sources be abolished, except those collected from spirituous, vinous, and malt liquors, tobacco in its various forms, and from stamps.

In readjusting the tariff, I suggest that a careful estimate be made of the amount of surplus revenue collected under the present laws, after providing for the current expenses of the Government, the interest account, and a sinking fund, and that this surplus be reduced in such a manner as to afford the greatest relief to the greatest number. There are many articles not produced at home, but which enter largely into general consumption through articles which are manufactured at home, such as medicines compounded, &c., &c., from which very little revenue is derived, but which enter into general use. All such articles I recommend to be placed on the "free list." Should a further reduction prove advisable, I would then recommend that it be made upon those articles which can best bear it without disturbing home-production, or reducing the wages of American labor.

I have not entered into figures, because to do so would be to repeat what will be laid before you in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury. The present laws for collecting revenue pay collectors of customs small salaries, but provide for moieties (shares in all seizures) which, at principal ports of entry particularly, raise the compensation of those officials to a large sum. It has always seemed to me as if this system must, at times, work perniciously. It holds out an inducement to dishonest men, should such get possession of those offices, to be lax in their scrutiny of goods entered to enable them finally to make large seizures. Your attention is respectfully invited to this subject.

Continued fluctuations in the value of gold, as compared with the national currency, has a most damaging effect upon the increase and development of the country in keeping up prices of all articles necessary in every-day life. It fosters a spirit of gambling prejudicial alike to national morals and the national finances. If the question can be met, as to how to get a fixed value to our currency, that value constantly and uniformly approaching par with specie, a very desirable object will be gained.

For the operations of the Army in the past year, the expense of maintaining it, the estimate for the ensuing year, and for continuing sea-coast and other improvements conducted under the supervision of the War Department, I refer you to the accompanying report of the Secretary of War.

I call your attention to the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1869, which discontinues promotions in the staff corps of the Army until provided for by law. I recommend that the number of officers in each grade in the staff corps be fixed, and that whenever the number in any one grade falls below the number so fixed, that the vacancy may be filled by promotion from the grade below. I also recommend that, when the office of chief of a corps becomes vacant, the place may be filled by selection from the corps in which the vacancy exists.

The report of the Secretary of the Navy shows an improvement in the number and efficiency of the naval force, without material increase in the expense of supporting it. This is due to the policy which has been adopted, and is being extended, as fast as our material will admit, of using smaller vessels as cruisers on the several stations. By this means we have been enabled to occupy at once a larger extent of cruising-grounds, to visit more frequently the ports where the presence of our flag is desirable, and generally to discharge more efficiently the appropriate duties of the Navy in time of peace, without exceeding the number of men or the expenditure authorized by law.

During the past year the Navy has, in addition to its regular service, supplied the men and officers for the vessels of the Coast Survey, and has completed the surveys authorized by Congress of the Isthmus of Darien and Tehuantepec, and under like authority has sent out an expedition completely furnished and equipped to explore the unknown ocean of the north.

The suggestions of the report as to the necessity for increasing and improving the materiel of the Navy, and the plan recommended for reducing the personnel of the service to a peace standard, by the gradual abolition of certain grades of officers, the reduction of others, and the employment of some in the service of the commercial marine, are well considered and deserve the thoughtful attention of Congress.

I also recommend that all promotions in the Navy above the rank of captain be by selection instead of by seniority. This course will secure in the higher grades greater efficiency and hold out an incentive to young officers to improve themselves in the knowledge of their profession.

The present cost of maintaining the Navy, its cost compared with that of the preceding year, and the estimates for the ensuing year, are contained in the accompanying report of the Secretary of the Navy.

The enlarged receipts of the Post-Office Department, as shown by the accompanying report of the Postmaster General, exhibits a gratifying increase in that branch of the public service. It is the index of the growth of education and of the prosperity of the people, two elements highly conducive to the vigor and stability of republics. With a vast territory like ours, much of it sparsely populated, but all requiring the services of the mail, it is not at present to be expected that this Department can be made self-sustaining. But a gradual approach to this end, from year to year, is confidently relied on, and the day is not far distant when the Post-Office Department of the Government will prove a much greater blessing to the whole people than it is now.

The suggestions of the Postmaster General for improvements in the Department presided over by him are earnestly recommended to your special attention. Especially do I recommend favorable consideration of the plan for uniting the telegraphic system of the United States with the postal system. It is believed that by such a course the cost of telegraphing could be much reduced, and the service as well, if not better, rendered. It would secure the further advantage of extending the telegraph through portions of the country where private enterprise will not construct it. Commerce, trade, and, above all, the efforts to bring a people widely separated into a community of interest, are always benefited by a rapid intercommunication. Education, the ground-work of republican institutions, is encouraged by increasing the facilities to gather speedy news from all parts of the country. The desire to reap the benefit of such improvements will stimulate education. I refer you to the report of the Postmaster General for full details of the operations of last year, and for comparative statements of results with former years.

There has been imposed upon the Executive branch of the Government the execution of the act of Congress approved April 20, 1871, and commonly known as the Ku-Klux law, in a portion of the State of South Carolina. The necessity of the course pursued will be demonstrated by the report of the Committee to Investigate Southern Outrages. Under the provisions of the above act, I issued a proclamation calling the attention of the people of the United States to the same, and declaring my reluctance to exercise any of the extraordinary powers thereby conferred upon me, except in case of imperative necessity, but making known my purpose to exercise such powers whenever it should become necessary to do so for the purpose of securing to all citizens of the United States the peaceful enjoyment of the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitution and the laws.

After the passage of this law, information was received, from time to time, that combinations of the character referred to in this law existed, and were powerful in many parts of the Southern States, particularly in certain counties in the State of South Carolina.

Careful investigation was made, and it was ascertained that, in nine counties of that State, such combinations were active and powerful, embracing a sufficient portion of the citizens to control the local authority, and having, among other things, the object of depriving the emancipated class of the substantial benefits of freedom, and of preventing the free political action of those citizens who did not sympathize with their own views. Among their operations were frequent scourgings and occasional assassinations, generally perpetrated at night by disguised persons, the victims in almost all cases being citizens of different political sentiments from their own, or freed persons who had shown a disposition to claim equal rights with other citizens. Thousands of inoffensive and well-disposed citizens were the sufferers by this lawless violence.

Thereupon, on the 12th of October, 1871, a proclamation was issued, in terms of the law, calling upon the members of those combinations to disperse within five days, and to deliver to the marshal or military officers of the United States all arms, ammunition, uniforms, disguises, and other means and implements used by them for carrying out their unlawful purposes.

This warning not having been heeded, on the 17th of October another proclamation was issued, suspending the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus in nine counties in that State.

Direction was given that, within the counties so designated, persons supposed, upon creditable information, to be members of such unlawful combinations should be arrested by the military forces of the United States, and delivered to the marshal, to be dealt with according to law. In two of said counties, York and Spartanburgh, many arrests have been made. At the last account, the number of persons thus arrested was one hundred and sixty-eight. Several hundred, whose criminality was ascertained to be of an inferior degree, were released for the present. These have generally made confessions of their guilt.

Great caution has been exercised in making these arrests, and, notwithstanding the large number, it is believed that no innocent person is now in custody. The prisoners will be held for regular trial in the judicial tribunals of the United States.

As soon as it appeared that the authorities of the United States were about to take vigorous measures to enforce the law, many persons absconded, and there is good ground for supposing that all of such persons have violated the law. A full report of what has been done under this law will be submitted to Congress by the Attorney General.

In Utah there still remains a remnant of barbarism, repugnant to civilization, to decency, and to the laws of the United States. Territorial officers, however, have been found who are willing to perform their duty in a spirit of equity and with a due sense of the necessity of sustaining the majesty of the law. Neither polygamy nor any other violation of existing statutes will be permitted within the territory of the United States. It is not with the religion of the self-styled Saints that we are now dealing, but with their practices. They will be protected in the worship of God according to the dictates of their consciences, but they will not be permitted to violate the laws under the cloak of religion.

It may be advisable for Congress to consider what, in the execution of the laws against polygamy, is to be the status of plural wives and their offspring. The propriety of Congress passing an enabling act authorizing the territorial legislature of Utah to legitimize all children born prior to a time fixed in the act might be justified by its humanity to these innocent children. This is a suggestion only, and not a recommendation.

The policy pursued toward the Indians has resulted favorably, so far as can be judged from the limited time during which it has been in operation. Through the exertions of the various societies of Christians to whom has been intrusted the execution of the policy, and the board of commissioners authorized by the law of April 10, 1869, many tribes of Indians have been induced to settle upon reservations, to cultivate the soil, to perform productive labor of various kinds, and to partially accept civilization. They are being cared for in such a way, it is hoped, as to induce those still pursuing their old habits of life to embrace the only opportunity which is left them to avoid extermination.

I recommend liberal appropriations to carry out the Indian peace policy, not only because it is humane, Christian-like, and economical, but because it is right.

I recommend to your favorable consideration also the policy of granting a territorial government to the Indians in the Indian Territory west of Arkansas and Missouri and south of Kansas. In doing so, every right guaranteed to the Indian by treaty should be secured. Such a course might in time be the means of collecting most of the Indians now between the Missouri and the Pacific and south of the British possessions into one Territory or one State. The Secretary of the Interior has treated upon this subject at length, and I commend to you his suggestions.

I renew my recommendation that the public lands be regarded as a heritage to our children, to be disposed of only as required for occupation and to actual settlers. Those already granted have been in great part disposed of in such a way as to secure access to the balance by the hardy settler who may wish to avail himself of them, but caution should be exercised even in attaining so desirable an object.

Educational interest may well be served by the grant of the proceeds of the sale of public lands to settlers. I do not wish to be understood as recommending, in the least degree, a curtailment of what is being done by the General Government for the encouragement of education.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior, submitted with this, will give you all the information collected and prepared for publication in regard to the census taken during the year 1870; the operations of the Bureau of Education for the year; the Patent Office; the Pension Office; the Land Office; and the Indian Bureau.

The report of the Commissioner of Agriculture gives the operations of his Department for the year. As agriculture is the ground-work of our prosperity, too much importance cannot be attached to the labors of this Department. It is in the hands of an able head, with able assistants, all zealously devoted to introduce into the agricultural productions of the nation all useful products adapted to any of the various climates and soils of our vast territory, and to giving all useful information as to the method of cultivation, the plants, cereals, and other products adapted to particular localities. Quietly, but surely, the Agricultural Bureau is working a great national good, and if liberally supported, the more widely its influence will be extended, and the less dependent we shall be upon the products of foreign countries.

The subject of compensation to the heads of Bureaus and officials holding positions of responsibility, and requiring ability and character to fill properly, is one to which your attention is invited. But few of the officials receive a compensation equal to the respectable support of a family, while their duties are such as to involve millions of interest. In private life services demand compensation equal to the services rendered; a wise economy would dictate the same rule in the Government service.

I have not given the estimates for the support of Government for the ensuing year, nor the comparative statement between the expenditures for the year just passed and the one just preceding, because all these figures are contained in the accompanying reports, or in those presented directly to Congress. These estimates have my approval.

More than six years having elapsed since the last hostile gun was fired between the armies then arrayed against each other—one for the perpetuation, the other for the destruction of the Union—it may well be considered whether it is not now time that the disabilities imposed by the fourteenth amendment should be removed. That amendment does not exclude the ballot, but only imposes the disability to hold offices upon certain classes. When the purity of the ballot is secure, majorities are sure to elect officers reflecting the views of the majority. I do not see the advantage or propriety of excluding men from office merely because they were, before the rebellion, of standing and character sufficient to be elected to positions requiring them to take oaths to support the Constitution, and admitting to eligibility those entertaining precisely the same views, but of less standing in their communities. It may be said that the former violated an oath, while the latter did not; the latter did not have it in their power to do so. If they had taken this oath, it cannot be doubted they would have broken it as did the former class. If there are any great criminals, distinguished above all others for the part they took in opposition to the Government, they might, in the judgment of Congress, be excluded from such an amnesty.

This subject is submitted for your careful consideration.

The condition of the Southern States is, unhappily, not such as all true patriotic citizens would like to see. Social ostracism for opinion's sake, personal violence or threats toward persons entertaining political views opposed to those entertained by the majority of the old citizens, prevents immigration and the flow of much-needed capital into the States lately in rebellion. It will be a happy condition of the country when the old citizens of these States will take an interest in public affairs, promulgate ideas honestly entertained, vote for men representing their views, and tolerate the same freedom of expression and ballot in those entertaining different political convictions.

Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved February 21, 1871, a territorial government was organized in the District of Columbia. Its results have thus far fully realized the expectations of its advocates. Under the direction of the territorial officers, a system of improvements has been inaugurated, by means of which Washington is rapidly becoming a city worthy of the nation's capital. The citizens of the District having voluntarily taxed themselves to a large amount for the purpose of contributing to the adornment of the seat of Government, I recommend liberal appropriations on the part of Congress, in order that the Government may bear its just share of the expense of carrying out a judicious system of improvements.

By the great fire in Chicago the most important of the Government buildings in that city were consumed. Those burned had already become inadequate to the wants of the Government in that growing city, and, looking to the near future, were totally inadequate. I recommend therefore that an appropriation be made immediately to purchase the remainder of the square on which the burned buildings stood, provided it can be purchased at a fair valuation, or provided that the legislature of Illinois will pass a law authorizing its condemnation for Government purposes; and also an appropriation of as much money as can properly be expended toward the erection of new buildings during this fiscal year.

The number of immigrants ignorant of our laws, habits, &c., coming into our country annually has become so great, and the impositions practiced upon them so numerous and flagrant, that I suggest congressional action for their protection. It seems to me a fair subject of legislation by Congress. I cannot now state as fully as I desire the nature of the complaints made by immigrants of the treatment they receive, but will endeavor to do so during the session of Congress, particularly if the subject should receive your attention.

It has been the aim of the Administration to enforce honesty and efficiency in all public offices. Every public servant who has violated the trust placed in him has been proceeded against with all the rigor of the law. If bad men have secured places, it has been the fault of the system established by law and custom for making appointments, or the fault of those who recommend for Government positions persons not sufficiently well known to them personally, or who give letters indorsing the characters of office-seekers without a proper sense of the grave responsibility which such a course devolves upon them. A civil service reform which can correct this abuse is much desired. In mercantile pursuits the business-man who gives a letter of recommendation to a friend, to enable him to obtain credit from a stranger, is regarded as morally responsible for the integrity of his friend, and his ability to meet his obligations. A reformatory law which would enforce this principle against all indorsers of persons for public place would insure great caution in making recommendations. A salutary lesson has been taught the careless and the dishonest public servant in the great number of prosecutions and convictions of the last two years.

It is gratifying to notice the favorable change which is taking place throughout the country in bringing to punishment those who have proven recreant to the trusts confided to them, and in elevating to public office none but those who possess the confidence of the honest and the virtuous, who, it will always be found, comprise the majority of the community in which they live.

In my message to Congress one year ago, I urgently recommended a reform in the civil service of the country. In conformity with that recommendation, Congress, in the ninth section of "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1871, gave the necessary authority to the Executive to inaugurate a civil service reform, and placed upon him the responsibility of doing so. Under the authority of said act, I convened a board of gentlemen, eminently qualified for the work, to devise rules and regulations to effect the needed reform. Their labors are not yet complete, but it is believed that they will succeed in devising a plan that can be adopted to the great relief of the Executive, the heads of Departments, and members of Congress, and which will redound to the true interest of the public service. At all events, the experiment shall have a fair trial.

I have thus hastily summed up the operations of the Government during the last year, and made such suggestions as occur to me to be proper for your consideration. I submit them with a confidence that your combined action will be wise, statesmanlike, and in the best interests of the whole country.

Mr. Scott, from the Joint Select Committee on alleged outrages in the Southern States, submitted a report, (No. 6,) accompanied by the following resolution :

Whereas the two Houses of Congress did by their concurrent resolution, passed on the 7th day of April, 1871, authorize and direct the appointment of a joint select committee for the performance of certain duties, in said concurrent resolution specified, the said joint select committee to be composed of members of the said two Houses; that is to say, of seven members of the Senate and fourteen members of the House of Representatives, which said joint select committee was duly appointed as by said concurrent resolution provided; and whereas, in the discharge and performance of the duties so enjoined upon them, the said joint select committee, on the 31st day of August, 1871, by subpoena duly issued and served, did summon and command a certain W. L. Saunders, of Chapel Hill, North Carolina, to appear before said joint select committee and testify touching the matters and things which the said joint select committee were authorized and required by the concurrent resolution of the two Houses of Congress to examine and inquire into; and whereas said W. L. Saunders did, on the 23d day of September, 1871, appear before a sub-committee duly authorized by said joint select committee of the two Houses of Congress to take the testimony of witnesses then present and awaiting examination, and having so appeared and submitted to be examined as a witness, did refuse to answer proper inquiries put to him in the course of the investigation by said sub-committee, thereby showing himself in contempt of the Senate of the United States, as well as the House of Representatives: Therefore,

Resolved by the Senate of the United States, (the House of Representatives concurring,) That W. L. Saunders, of Chapel Hill, and State of North Carolina, a witness heretofore duly summoned before a joint select committee of the two Houses of Congress, having been lawfully required to testify before a sub-committee, duly authorized by said joint select committee to take his testimony, and having, in the course of the investigation, refused to answer proper inquiries put to him by the chairman of said joint committee, be forthwith arrested by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, and brought before the Senate, at its bar, by the order of the Senate duly issued by the Vice-President, under his hand and the seal of the Senate; and that said Saunders be detained, by virtue thereof, by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, until he answer for his contempt of the order of the Senate in the matter aforesaid, and abide such further order as may be made in the premises.

Mr. Scott, from the Joint Select Committee on alleged outrages in the Southern States, submitted a report, (No. 7,) accompanied by the following resolution:

Whereas the two Houses of Congress did, by their concurrent resolution passed on the 7th day of April, 1871, authorize and direct the appointment of a joint select committee for the performance of certain duties in said concurrent resolution specified—the said joint select committee to be composed of members of the said two Houses; that is to say, of seven members of the Senate and fourteen members of the House of Representatives—which said joint select committee was duly appointed as by said concurrent resolution provided; and whereas, in the discharge and performance of the duties so enjoined upon them, the said joint select committee did appoint a sub-committee of their own number to take testimony in the State of South Carolina, which said sub-committee, on the 14th day of July, 1871, by subpoena duly issued and served, did summon and command a certain Clayton Camp, of Spartanburgh County, South Carolina, to appear before said sub-committee; and on the 18th day of July, 1871, by like subpoena duly issued and served, did summon and command a certain David Gist, of Union County, South Carolina, to appear before said sub-committee, each of said witnesses so summoned to testify before the said sub-committee touching the matters and things which the joint select committee were authorized and required by the concurrent resolution of the two Houses of Congress to examine and inquire into; and whereas the said Clayton Camp and the said David Gist, having been so summoned and commanded, did fail and refuse to appear before the said sub-committee, thereby showing themselves in contempt of the Senate of the United States as well as of the House of Representatives: Therefore,

Resolved by the Senate of the United States, (the House of Representatives concurring,) That the President of the Senate issue his several warrants, directed to the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, commanding him to take into his custody the bodies of the said Clayton Camp and David Gist, respectively, wherever to be found, and to have the same forthwith before the bar of the Senate to answer as for a contempt of the authority of the Senate.

The bill (H. R. 1) last received from the House of Representatives for concurrence was read the first and second times, by unanimous consent, and referred to the Committee on the Revision of the Laws.

On motion by Mr. Sherman, and by unanimous consent,

The joint resolution (H. R. 65) relating to the limitation of steam pressure on towing and freight boats on the Mississippi River and its tributaries, was read the first and second times, by unanimous consent, and considered as in Committee of the Whole; and

On motion by Mr. Trumbull to amend the resolution in section 1, line 1, by striking out the word "resolved," and inserting in lieu thereof the word enacted,

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendment.

Mr. Conkling submitted the following resolution for consideration :

Whereas it has been declared in the Senate that "at the port of New York there exists and is maintained by officers of the United States, under the name of the 'general-order business,' a monstrous abuse, fraudulent in character;" and whereas the following statement has been made by a Senator :

"It was intimated by some of the witnesses that Mr. Leet, who pockets the enormous profits arising from that business, had some connection with the White House; but General Porter was examined, Mr. Leet himself was examined, and they both testified that it was not so, and, counting the number of witnesses, we have no right to form a different conclusion. But the fact remains that this scandalous system of robbery is sustained—is sustained against the voice of the merchants of New York—is sustained against the judgment and the voice of the Secretary of the Treasury himself. I ask you, how is it sustained? Where and what is the mysterious power that sustains it? The conclusion is inevitable that it is a power stronger than decent respect for public opinion, nay, a power stronger than the Secretary of the Treasury himself:"

Therefore resolved, That the Committee of Investigation and Retrenchment be instructed to inquire into the matter fully and at large, and particularly whether any collusion or improper connection with said business exists on the part of any officer of the United States; and that said committee further inquire whether any person holding office in the custom-house at New York has been detected, or is known or believed by his superior officer to have been guilty of bribery, or of taking bribes, or of other crime or misdemeanor; and said committee is hereby empowered to send for persons and papers.

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

On motion by Mr. Wilson, and by unanimous consent.

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (S. 219) to carry into effect the decisions of the Supreme Court relating to bounty to soldiers enlisted between the 3d day of May and the 22d day of July, 1861; and

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

Ordered, That the bill be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

On motion by Mr. Anthony that the Senate now proceed to the appointment of the Committee on Investigation and Retrenchment,
It was determined in the affirmative; and

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Porter, his secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In accordance with the act of Congress approved March 3, 1871, I convened a commission of eminent gentlemen to devise rules and regulations for the purpose of reforming the civil service. Their labors are now completed, and I transmit herewith their report, together with the rules which they recommend for my action. These rules have been adopted and will go into effect on the 1st day of January, 1872. Under the law referred to, as I interpret it, the authority is already invested in the Executive to enforce these regulations, with full power to abridge, alter, or amend them at his option, when changes may be deemed advisable. These views, together with the report of the commissioners, are submitted for your careful consideration as to whether further legislation may be necessary in order to carry out an effective and beneficial civil service reform. If left to me without further congressional action, the rules prescribed by the commission under the reservation already mentioned will be faithfully executed; but they are not binding without further legislation upon my successors.

Being desirous of bringing this subject to the attention of Congress before the approaching recess, I have not time to sufficiently examine the accompanying report to enable me to suggest definite legislative action to insure the support which may be necessary in order to give a thorough trial to a policy long needed.

I ask for all the strength which Congress can give me to enable me to carry out the reforms in the civil service recommended by the commission, and adopted to take effect, as before stated, on January 1, 1872. The law which provides for the convening a commission to devise rules and regulations for reforming the civil service authorizes, I think, the permanent organization of a primary board, under whose general direction all examinations of applicants for public office shall be conducted. There is no appropriation to continue such a board beyond the termination of its present labors. I therefore recommend that a proper appropriation be made to continue the services of the present board for another year; and in view of the fact that three members of the board hold positions in the public service, which precludes them from receiving extra compensation under existing laws, that they be authorized to receive a fair compensation for extra services rendered by them in the performance of this duty.

U. S. GRANT.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, December 19, 1871.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

On motion by Mr. Frelinghuysen that ten thousand additional copies of the message and accompanying documents be printed for the use of the Senate,

Ordered, That the motion be referred to the Committee on Printing.

On motion by Mr. Morrill, of Vermont,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 459) for the construction of a public building at Chicago, Illinois; and the bill having been amended, on motion by Mr. Morrill, of Vermont, from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, it was reported to the Senate, and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the amendments be engrossed and the bill read a third time.

The said bill, as amended, was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendments.

On motion by Mr. Conkling,

The Senate proceeded to consider the resolution yesterday submitted by him, instructing the Committee on Investigation and Retrenchment to inquire into the so-called "general-order" business in the custom-house in New York and the alleged abuses and frauds therein; and

Mr. Conkling having modified his resolution,

On the question to agree thereto,

It was determined in the affirmative, {	Yeas.....	58

On motion by Mr. Conkling,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present, Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Ames, Anthony, Bayard, Blair, Boreman, Brownlow, Buckingham, Caldwell, Carpenter, Casserly, Chandler, Clayton, Conkling, Cooper, Corbett, Davis of Kentucky, Davis of West Virginia, Edmunds, Fenton, Ferry of Connecticut, Ferry of Michigan, Flanagan, Frelinghuysen, Gilbert, Hamlin, Harlan, Hill, Hitchcock, Johnson, Kellogg, Kelly, Lewis, Logan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Nye, Osborn, Patterson, Pool, Pratt, Rice, Robertson, Saulsbury, Sawyer, Schurz, Scott, Sherman, Spencer, Stewart, Stockton, Sumner, Thurman, Tipton, Trumbull, Vickers, West, Wilson.

So the resolution was agreed to, as follows:

Whereas it has been declared in the Senate that at the port of New York there exists, and is maintained by officers of the United States, under the name of the general-order business, "a monstrous abuse," fraudulent in character; and whereas the following statement has been made by a Senator:

"It was intimated by some of the witnesses that Mr. Leet, who pockets the enormous profits arising from that business, had some connection with the White House; but General Porter was examined, Mr. Leet himself was examined, and they both testified that it was not so; and counting the number of the witnesses we have no right to form a different conclusion. But the fact remains that this scandalous system of robbery is sustained—is sustained against the voice of the merchants of New York—is sustained against the judgment and the voice of the Secretary of the Treasury himself. I ask you, how is it sustained? Where and what is the mysterious power that sustains it? The conclusion is inevitable that it is a power stronger than decent respect for public opinion, nay, a power stronger than the Secretary of the Treasury himself."

Therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Investigation and Retrenchment be instructed to inquire into the matter fully and at large, and particularly whether any collusion or improper connection with said business exists on the part of any officer of the United States, and that said committee further inquire whether any person holding office in the custom-house at New York has been detected in, or is known or believed by his superior officer to have been guilty of bribery, or of taking bribes, or of other crime or misdemeanor.

And said committee is hereby empowered to send for persons and papers.

And also, whether any charges for storage or carting have been or are made by officers of the custom-house, or persons acting under the regulations of the custom-house, which charges are not authorized by law.

And also, whether presents have been accepted by officers of the custom house from other officers subordinate to them or acting under their control, and whether officers making such presents have been selected with preference to attend the discharging of steamships;

And also, whether there have been or are officers of the custom-house conniving at frauds or irregular practices in passing the baggage of travelers arriving in the port of New York.

And also, whether articles of merchandise, while under the control of officers of the custom-house, have been abstracted, and whether or not such articles have, on application of the owners in several cases, been returned, and whether any officers of the custom-house have been punished for abstracting articles of merchandise under their control.

And also, to what extent the practices of compromising with merchants defrauding or attempting to defraud the revenue has prevailed, and whether and to what extent by such compromises the amount of revenue due to the United States in such cases has been diminished, and whether any and what pecuniary benefit has been derived therefrom by the officers making such compromises.

Also, whether the patronage, officers, or employés of said custom-house were used to influence or control either or both of the two last State conventions of the republican party in New York, and whether assessments of money have been made, or contributions of money exacted, to be used to control primaries, secure delegates to State conventions, or for other political purposes, and whether any of the said offices in said custom-house have been or are used as instruments of political or party patronage.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has concurred in the amendments of the Senate to the joint resolution (H. R. 65) relating to the limitation of steam-power on towing and freight boats on the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill, (H. R. 773,) I am directed to bring it to the Senate for the signature of its President.

Mr. Carpenter reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill (H. R. 773) relating to the limitation of steam-power on towing and freight boats on the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

The Vice-President signed the bill (H. R. 773) last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

On motion by Mr. Conkling,

The Senate resumed the consideration of the resolution submitted by him, the 4th instant, in relation to the recent defalcation of J. L. Hodge, late paymaster United States Army; and,

Mr. Conkling having modified the said resolution, and

Mr. Trumbull having withdrawn the amendment heretofore proposed by him,

On the question to agree to the resolution as modified,

It was determined in the affirmative; and

The resolution was agreed to, as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Investigation and Retrenchment be instructed to inquire into the recent defalcation of J. L. Hodge, late a paymaster in the Army, and into the facts connected therewith, and to ascertain and report to the Senate whether any other officer or officers of the Government were or are derelict in duty in respect of the observance of regulations and safe-guards intended to prevent such occurrences, and also whether other or further legislation or regulation is needed for the future; and that said committee also examine into the alleged fraud and violation of duty of Callander, a bank-examiner in the city of New York; and that said committee be empowered to send for persons and papers.

Mr. Pool was, on his own motion, excused from service on the Committee on Investigation and Retrenchment.

On motion by Mr. Carpenter,

The Senate proceeded to consider the resolution reported from the Committee on the Judiciary, to admit Thomas M. Norwood to a seat in the Senate, as a Senator from the State of Georgia; and,

On the question to agree thereto,

It was determined in the affirmative.

So it was

Resolved, That Thomas M. Norwood is entitled to a seat in the Senate, as a Senator from the State of Georgia, for the term commencing March 4, 1871, and that he be admitted to the same.

Whereupon

Mr. Norwood appeared, and the oaths prescribed by law having been administered to him by the Vice-President, he took his seat in the Senate.

On motion by Mr. Scott,

The Senate resumed the consideration of the resolution reported from the Joint Select Committee to investigate alleged outrages in the Southern States, on the 6th instant, providing for the arrest of one W. L. Saunders, of North Carolina, for his contempt in refusing to appear and testify before said committee; and

The question recurring on the amendment proposed by Mr. Edwards, viz, strike out the words "the House of Representatives concurring,"

It was determined in the negative; and,

On the question to agree to the resolution,

It was determined in the affirmative.

So the resolution was agreed to, as follows:

Whereas the two Houses of Congress did, by their concurrent resolution, passed on the 7th day of April, 1871, authorize and direct the appointment of a joint select committee for the performance of certain duties in said concurrent resolution specified, the said joint select committee to be composed of members of the said two Houses; that is to say, of seven members of the Senate and fourteen members of the House of Representatives, which said joint select committee was duly appointed as by said concurrent resolution provided;

And whereas, in the discharge and performance of the duties so enjoined upon them, the said joint select committee, on the 31st day of August, 1871, by subpoena duly issued and served, did summon and command a certain W. L. Mr. Scott, from the Joint Select Committee to investigate Alleged Outrages in Southern States, submitted the following report (No. 15:)

At a meeting of "the Joint Select Committee to inquire into the condition of the late insurrectionary States, so far as regards the execution of the laws and the safety of the lives and property of the citizens of the United States," convened at their room in the Capitol, on the 22d of September, 1871, Messrs. Scott, Pool, and Blair were appointed a sub-committee to examine the witnesses then in attendance; which sub-committee organized on the 23d of September, 1871, and examined Edward Wheeler, of Arkansas. On the 25th of September, 1871, said sub-committee examined William G. Whipple, of Arkansas.

The testimony of these witnesses tends to impeach the official character and conduct of a member of the United States Senate from the State of Arkansas, and also to affect the right of a member of the House of Representatives from that State to retain his seat in the House. Other evidence of the same character was offered, and one of the gentlemen affected by this testimony claimed the right to bring witnesses before the committee to contradict or explain the same. The committee, however, upon consideration, decided that the subject-matter to which said testimony related did not come within the limits of the investigation they were directed to make, and therefore declined to prosecute the inquiry any further, discharging a witness who had been subpoenaed and was then awaiting an examination.

The Joint Select Committee, pursuing what they deemed to be the proper parliamentary course, at a meeting on December 21, 1871, adopted the following resolution :

“Resolved, That the committee report the testimony taken before the committee affecting Senator Clayton and Mr. Edwards, a Representative from Arkansas, to the Senate and House of Representatives, with a recommendation that each House take such action as it may deem proper.”

Agreeably to this resolution of said Joint Select Committee, the undersigned, the chairman on the part of the Senate, and the chairman on the part of the House of Representatives, beg leave to submit the testimony hereto annexed of Edward Wheeler and William G. Whipple, both of the State of Arkansas, said Wheeler and Whipple having been the only witnesses from that State who were examined by the committee, to the Senate and House of Representatives respectively, for such action as each House may deem advisable.

Whereas it appears from a recent cable telegram that the committee of the French National Assembly on war contracts has adopted a resolution asking the United States Government to furnish the result of inquiry into the conduct of American officials suspected of participating in the purchase of arms for the French government during the war with Germany; and

Whereas one Squire, agent of Messrs. Remington & Sons, at New York, in a dispatch dated at New York, October 8, 1870, addressed to Samuel Remington, at Tours, in France, near the government of national defense, uses the following language: "We have the strongest influences working for us, which will use all their efforts to succeed;" and

Whereas, in a letter dated at New York, December 13, 1871, addressed by Samuel Remington to Jules Le Cesne, president of the armament committee at Tours, in France, the following language is employed:

"NEW YORK, December 13, 1870.

"SIR: I have the honor to inform you I have received your telegram of the 10th and 11th, ordering the number of batteries to be reduced in number to fifty, and informing me of instructions to the consul regarding the last credit to him of 3,000,000 of francs.

"Although at the time of the receipt of the telegram I had bought the whole number, one hundred, and had paid the advance required, $200,000, the Government very willingly reduced the number to fifty.

* * * * *

"Regarding the purchase of Springfields, (transformed,) Allen's system, I am sorry to say the greatest number we may hope to get will not, I fear, exceed forty thousand. The Government has never made but about seventy-five thousand all told, and forty thousand is the greatest number they think it prudent to spare. I may be able to procure, depending upon an exchange of our arms at some future time, for the number of breech-loading Springfields over and above forty thousand they are willing to let go now.

"This question of an exchange, with the very friendly feeling I find existing to aid France, I hope to be able to procure more. Cartridges for these forty thousand will in a great measure require to be made, as the Government have but about three millions on hand; but the Government has consented to allow the requisite number, four hundred for each gun, to be made, and the cartridge-works have had orders (given yesterday) to increase production to the full capacity of the works. This question of making the cartridges at the Government works was a difficult one to get over; but it is done. The price the Government will charge for the guns and cartridges will be ———, or as near that as possible.

"JULES LE CESNE, Esq.,

"President Commission of Armament, &c., &c., &c."

Whereas the Secretary of War, under date of January 19, 1872, addressed the following communication to the Secretary of State:

"WAR DEPARTMENT,

"Washington City, January 19, 1872.

"SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a note from you of the 4th instant, inclosing, by request of Mr. de Bellonnet, chargé d'affaires of France, a copy of a letter from Mr. Remington to the president of the commission of armament at Tours, containing a series of allegations in regard to the purchase of arms, &c.

"The first of these allegations which seem to require specific replies is, 'cartridges for these 40,000 will in a great measure require to be made, as the Government have but about three million on hand; but the Government has consented to allow the requisite number, four hundred for each gun, to be made, and the cartridge-works have orders (given yesterday) to increase production to the full capacity of the works. This question of making the cartridges at the Government works was a difficult one to get over; but it is done.'

"In reply to that allegation, I have to say that on the 13th of December, 1870, cartridges necessary to supply about 200 rounds per gun to the model of 1866 breech-loaders sold Thomas Richardson were ordered to be manufactured at the Frankford Arsenal, and this number of cartridges was necessary to effect the sale of the arms. The Messrs. Remington & Sons did not buy any arms or ammunition from this Department after about the middle of October, 1870, nor would any bid from them for such articles have been entertained by the United States subsequent to that date.

"To the second prominent allegation which is contained in the paper purporting to be a copy of a telegram from Squires to Remington, and which is herewith returned, I have the honor to reply that this Department has no knowledge of any influence exerted in favor of, or for the success of, any transaction between the United States and Mr. Squires, for himself or Messrs. Remington & Sons.

“Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

“WM. W. BELKNAP,

“Secretary of War.

“To the honorable the SECRETARY OF STATE.”

Whereas it appears from these several communications, not only that arms were sold, but that ammunition was manufactured in the workshops of the United States Government, and sold to one Thomas Richardson, the known attorney of Messrs. Remington & Sons, when the bids of the latter had been thrown out for the reason that they were the agents of the French government; and

Whereas it appears, from the official report of the Secretary of War, that, in the year 1870-'71, the sale of ordnance stores reached the sum of $10,000,000, from which, according to the report, only a small sum was retained to meet the expenses of preparing other stores for sale, while the official report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the same year acknowledges the receipt of only $8,286,131 70, showing a difference of over $1,700,000; and

Whereas a comparison of the accounts rendered by the French government for moneys expended by its agents in the purchase of arms from the United States and the accounts rendered by the Government of the United States for moneys received in the same transaction show a large difference, which seems to have given rise to the suspicion abroad that United States officials have taken an undue part therein; and

Whereas the good name of the American Government seems to be seriously compromised by these incidents, and a just regard to national honor, as well as to the interests of the Treasury, require that they should not be allowed to pass without the most thorough inquiry: Therefore,

Resolved, That a select committee of seven be appointed to investigate all sales of ordnance stores made by the Government of the United States during the war between France and Germany; to ascertain the persons to whom such sales were made, the circumstances under which they were made, and the real parties in interest, and the sums respectively paid and received by the real parties; and that the committee have power to send for persons and papers; and that the investigation be conducted in public.

On motion by Mr. Conkling,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present, Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Ames, Anthony, Bayard, Blair, Boreman, Caldwell, Cameron, Carpenter, Casserly, Chandler, Clayton, Cole, Conkling, Corbett, Edmunds, Ferry of Michigan, Flanagan, Frelinghuysen, Gilbert Harlan, Hill, Hitchcock, Johnston, Kellogg, Kelly, Logan, Morrill of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Morton, Norwood, Nye, Osborn, Pomeroy, Pratt, Ramsey, Rice, Robertson, Sawyer, Schurz, Scott, Sherman, Spencer, Stevenson, Sumner, Trumbull, Vickers, West, Windom, Wright.

Mr. Sprague voted in the negative.

So the amendment of Mr. Conkling, as amended, was agreed to.

The question recurring on the resolution, as amended, as follows :

Whereas it appears from a recent cable telegram that the committee of the French National Assembly on war contracts has adopted a resolution asking the United States Government to furnish the result of inquiry into the conduct of American officials suspected of participating in the purchase of arms for the French government during the war with Germany ; and

Whereas one Squire, agent of Messrs. Remington & Sons, at New York, in a dispatch dated at New York, October 8, 1870, addressed to Samuel Remington, at Tours, in France, near the government of national defense, uses the following language: "We have the strongest influences working for us, which will use all their efforts to succeed ;" and

Whereas in a letter dated at New York, December 13, 1871, addressed by Samuel Remington to Jules Le Cesne, president of the armament committee at Tours, in France, the following language is employed :

"NEW YORK, December 13, 1870.

"SIR: I have the honor to inform you I have received your telegram of the 10th and 11th, ordering the number of batteries to be reduced in number to fifty, and informing me of instructions to the consul regarding the last credit to him of 3,000,000 of francs.

"Although at the time of the receipt of the telegram I had bought the whole number, one hundred, and had paid the advance required, $200,000, the Government very willingly reduced the number to fifty.

* * * * *

"Regarding the purchase of Springfields, (transformed,) Allen's system, I am sorry to say the greatest number we may hope to get will not, I fear, exceed forty thousand. The Government has never made but about seventy-five thousand all told, and forty thousand is the greatest number they think it prudent to spare. I may be able to procure, depending upon an exchange of our arms at some future time, for the number of breech-loading Springfields over and above forty thousand they are willing to let go now.

"This question of an exchange, with the very friendly feeling I find existing to aid France, I hope to be able to procure more. Cartridges for these forty thousand will, in a great measure, require to be made, as the Government have but about three millions on hand. But the Government has consented to allow the requisite number, four hundred for each gun, to be made, and the cartridge-works have had orders given yesterday to increase production to the full capacity of works. This question of making the cartridges at the Government works was a difficult one to get over. But it is done. The price the Government will charge for the guns and cartridges will be ———, or as near that as possible.

"JULES LE CESNE, Esq.,

"President Commission of Armament, &c., &c., &c."

Whereas the Secretary of War, under date of January 19, 1872, addressed the following communication to the Secretary of State:

"WAR DEPARTMENT,

"Washington City, January 19, 1872.

"SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a note from you of the 4th instant, inclosing by request of Mr. De Bellonnet, chargé d'affaires of France, a copy of a letter from Mr. Remington to the president of the commission of armament at Tours, containing a series of allegations in regard to the purchase of arms, &c.

"The first of these allegations which seem to require specific replies is, 'cartridges for these 40,000 will in a great measure require to be made, as the Government have but about 3,000,000 on hand, but the Government has consented to allow the requisite number, 400 for each gun, to be made, and the cartridge-works have orders (given yesterday) to increase production to the full capacity of the works. This question of making the cartridges at the Government works was a difficult one to get over, but it is done.'

"In reply to that allegation, I have to say that on the 13th of December, 1870, cartridges necessary to supply about 200 rounds per gun to the model 1866 breech-loaders, sold Thomas Richardson, were ordered to be manufactured at the Frankford Arsenal, and this number of cartridges was necessary to effect the sale of the arms. The Messrs. Remington & Sons did not buy any arms or ammunition from this Department after about the middle of October, 1870, nor would any bid from them for such articles have been entertained by the United States subsequent to that date.

"To the second prominent allegation which is contained in the paper purporting to be a copy of a telegram from Squires to Remington, and which is herewith returned, I have the honor to reply that this Department has no knowledge of any influence exerted in favor of, or for the success of, any transaction between the United States and Mr. Squires, for himself or Messrs. Remington & Sons.

"Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

"WM. W. BELKNAP.

"Secretary of War.

"To the honorable the SECRETARY OF STATE."

Whereas it appears from these several communications, not only that arms were sold, but that ammunition was manufactured in the workshops of the United States Government, and sold to one Thomas Richardson, the known attorney of Messrs. Remington & Sons, when the bids of the latter had been thrown out for the reason that they were the agents of the French Government; and

Whereas it appears, from the official report of the Secretary of War, that, in the year 1870-'71, the sale of ordnance stores reached the sum of $10,000,000, from which, according to the report, only a small sum was retained to meet the expenses of preparing other stores for sale, while the official report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the same year acknowledges the receipt of only $8,286,131 70, showing a difference of over $1,700,000; and

Whereas a comparison of the accounts rendered by the French government for moneys expended by its agents in the purchase of arms from the United States and the accounts rendered by the Government of the United States for moneys received in the same transaction show a large difference, which seems to have given rise to the suspicion abroad that United States officials have taken an undue part therein; and

Whereas the good name of the American Government seems to be seriously compromised by these incidents, and a just regard to national honor, as well as to the interests of the Treasury, require that they should not be allowed to pass without the most thorough inquiry: Therefore,

Resolved, That a select committee of seven be appointed to investigate all sales of ordnance stores made by the Government of the United States during the war between France and Germany; to ascertain the persons to whom such sales were made, the circumstances under which they were made, and the real parties in interest, and the sums respectively paid and received by the real parties; and that said committee also inquire and report whether any member of the Senate or any other American citizen is, or has been, in communication or collusion with the government or authorities of France, or with any agent or officer thereof, in reference to the said matters; and that the committee have power to send for persons and papers; and that the investigation be conducted in public.

Mr. Sumner called for a division of the question, so that separate votes be taken on the resolution and the preamble; and

On the question to agree to the resolution as amended,

On motion by Mr. Edmunds,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present,

Mr. Sumner asked leave of the Senate to withdraw the preamble to the resolution; and objection being made to the withdrawal of the preamble,

The Vice-President decided that the preamble being a part of the resolution, and the resolution having been amended by a vote of the Senate, it was not within the power of the Senator, except by consent of the Senate, to modify or withdraw it.

The question again recurring on the resolution as amended,

On motion by Mr. Harlan to further amend the resolution by striking out the words, "war between France and Germany; to ascertain the persons to whom such sales were made, the circumstances under which they were made, and the real parties in interest, and the sums respectively paid and received by the real parties," and inserting in lieu thereof, fiscal year ending the 30th of June, A. D. 1871, to ascertain the persons to whom such sales were made, the circumstances under which they were made, the sums respectively paid by said purchasers to the United States, the disposition made of the proceeds of said sales;

It was determined in the affirmative.

So the amendment proposed by Mr. Harlan was agreed to.

Mr. Trumbull submitted a motion to reconsider the vote agreeing to the amendment proposed by Mr. Conkling,

Pending which,

On motion by Mr. Edmunds,

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business; and

After the consideration of executive business, the doors were opened, and

The Senate adjourned.

Mr. Carpenter reported from the committee that they had this day presented to the President of the United States the bill (S. 384) extending the time for the completion of the Green Bay and Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan Ship-Canal in the State of Wisconsin.

The Vice-President announced that the morning hour had expired, and called up the unfinished business of the Senate at its last adjournment, viz, the resolution submitted by Mr. Sumner on the twelfth instant, for the appointment of a select committee to investigate alleged sales of arms and munitions of war by the Government of the United States to the government of France, during the late war between France and Germany; and

The Senate resumed the consideration of the said resolution; and

The amendment proposed by Mr. Schurz to the resolution having been agreed to, and the resolution having been further amended on motion by Mr. Harlan,

On the question to agree to the resolution, as amended, as follows:

Resolved, That a select committee of seven be appointed to investigate all sales of ordnance stores made by the Government of the United States during the fiscal year ending the 30th of June, A. D. 1871, to ascertain the persons to whom such sales were made, the circumstances under which they were made, the sums respectively paid by said purchasers to the United States, and the disposition made of the proceeds of said sales; and that said committee also inquire and report whether any member of the Senate, or any other American citizen, is, or has been, in communication or collusion with the government or authorities of any foreign power, or with any agent or officer thereof, in reference to the said matters, and also whether breech-loading muskets or other muskets capable of being transformed into breech-loaders have not been sold by the War Department in such large numbers as seriously to impair the defensive capacity of the country in time of war; and that the committee have power to send for persons and papers; and that the investigation be conducted in public;

So the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

On the question to agree to the preamble to the resolution, as follows:

Whereas it appears from a recent cable telegram that the committee of the French National Assembly on war contracts has adopted a resolution asking the United States Government to furnish the result of inquiry into the conduct of American officials suspected of participating in the purchase of arms for the French government during the war with Germany; and

Whereas one Squire, agent of Messrs. Remington & Sons, at New York, in a dispatch dated at New York, October 8, 1870, addressed to Samuel Remington, at Tours, in France, near the government of national defense, uses the following language: "We have the strongest influences working for us, which will use all their efforts to succeed;" and

Whereas in a letter dated at New York, December 13, 1871, addressed by Samuel Remington to Jules Le Cesne, president of the armament committee at Tours, in France, the following language is employed:

"NEW YORK, December 13, 1870.

"SIR: I have the honor to inform you I have received your telegram of the 10th and 11th, ordering the number of batteries to be reduced in number to fifty, and informing me of instructions to the consul regarding the last credit to him of 3,000,000 of francs.

"Although at the time of the receipt of the telegram I had bought the whole number, one hundred, and had paid the advance required, $200,000, the Government very willingly reduced the number to fifty.

"Regarding the purchase of Springfields, (transformed,) Allen's system, I am sorry to say the greatest number we may hope to get will not, I fear, exceed forty thousand. The Government has never made but about seventy-five thousand all told, and forty thousand is the greatest number they think it prudent to spare. I may be able to procure, depending upon an exchange of our arms at some future time, for the number of breech-loading Springfields over and above forty thousand they are willing to let go now.

"This question of an exchange, with the very friendly feeling I find existing to aid France, I hope to be able to procure more. Cartridges for these forty thousand will in a great measure require to be made, as the Government have but about three millions on hand. But the Government has consented to allow the requisite number, four hundred for each gun, to be made, and the cartridge-works have had orders, given yesterday, to increase production to the full capacity of works. This question of making the cartridges at the Government works was a difficult one to get over. But it is done. The price the Government will charge for the guns and cartridges will be ———, or as near that as possible.

“JULES LE CESNE, Esq.,

“President Commission of Armament, &c., &c.”

Whereas the Secretary of War, under date of January 19, 1872, addressed the following communication to the Secretary of State:

“WAR DEPARTMENT,

“Washington City, January 19, 1872.”

“SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a note from you of the 4th instant, inclosing, by request of Mr. de Bellonnet, chargé d'affaires of France, a copy of a letter from Mr. Remington to the president of the commission of armament at Tours, containing a series of allegations in regard to the purchase of arms, &c.

“The first of these allegations which seem to require specific replies is, ‘cartridges for these 40,000 will in a great measure require to be made, as the Government have but about 3,000,000 on hand; but the Government has consented to allow the requisite number, 400 for each gun, to be made, and the cartridge-works have orders (given yesterday) to increase production to the full capacity of the works. This question of making the cartridges at the Government works was a difficult one to got over, but it is done.’

“In reply to that allegation, I have to say that on the 13th of December, 1870, cartridges necessary to supply about 200 rounds per gun to the model 1866 breech-loaders sold Thomas Richardson were ordered to be manufactured at the Frankford arsenal, and this number of cartridges was necessary to effect the sale of the arms. The Messrs. Remington & Sons did not buy any arms or ammunition from this Department after about the middle of October, 1870, nor would any bid from them for such articles have been entertained by the United States subsequent to that date.

“To the second prominent allegation which is contained in the paper purporting to be a copy of a telegram from Squire to Remington, and which is herewith returned, I have the honor to reply that this Department has no knowledge of any influence exerted in favor of, or for the success of, any transaction between the United States and Mr. Squire for himself or Messrs. Remington & Sons.

“Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

“WM. W. BELKNAP,

“Secretary of War.”

“To the Hon. SECRETARY OF STATE.”

Whereas it appears from these several communications, not only that arms were sold, but that ammunition was manufactured in the workshops of the United States Government, and sold to one Thomas Richardson, the known attorney of Messrs. Remington & Sons, when the bids of the latter had been thrown out for the reason that they were the agents of the French government; and

Whereas it appears, from the official report of the Secretary of War, that, in the year 1870-'71, the sale of ordnance stores reached the sum of $10,000,000, from which, according to the report, only a small sum was retained to meet the expenses of preparing other stores for sale, while the official report of the Secretary of the Treasury for the same year acknowledges the receipt of only $8,286,131 70, showing a difference of over $1,700,000; and

Whereas a comparison of the accounts rendered by the French government for moneys expended by its agents in the purchase of arms from the United States and the accounts rendered by the Government of the United States for moneys received in the same transaction show a large difference, which seems to have given rise to the suspicion abroad that United States officials have taken an undue part therein; and

Whereas the good name of the American Government seems to be seriously compromised by these incidents, and a just regard to national honor, as well as to the interests of the Treasury, require that they should not be allowed to pass without the most thorough inquiry: Therefore,

On motion by Mr. Hamlin that the preamble lie on the table,

Mr. Edmunds raised a question of order on the motion of Mr. Hamlin, viz: That a motion to lay the preamble to the resolution on the table could not be entertained without carrying with it the resolution itself.

The Vice-President overruled the question of order raised by Mr. Edmunds, and decided that a division of the question having been demanded on the preamble and the resolution, and the resolution having been agreed to by the Senate, the motion to lay on the table the preamble, which was a question in debate within the meaning of the twelfth rule of the Senate, was in order; and that, should it prevail, it would not carry with it the resolution, which had been disposed of by the Senate, but could only carry with it to the table some proposition, if any remained, still remaining and undisposed of;

Whereupon

Mr. Edmunds appealed from the decision of the Chair; and,

On the question, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?

Mr. Sumner, while engaged in debate upon this question, was called to order by Mr. Sherman, on the ground that it was not in order in discussing an appeal from the decision of the Chair to debate the merits of the preamble.

The Vice-President overruled the question of order raised by Mr. Sherman, on the ground that under the rules and practice of the Senate it was not for the Chair, but for the Senator who might have the floor, to decide upon the relevancy of his own remarks to the question before the Senate.

Mr. Sherman appealed from the decision of the Chair; and

On the question, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?

It was determined in the affirmative, { Yeas 28

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Ames, Boreman, Brownlow, Cameron, Carpenter, Conkling, Corbett, Cragin, Edmunds, Flanagan, Gilbert, Hamlin, Harlan, Morton, Nye, Osborn, Sherman, Wright.

Whereas the fourteenth section of an act approved July 1, 1862, incorporating the Union Pacific Railroad Company, provides—

“That the said Union Pacific Railroad Company is hereby authorized and required to construct a single line of railroad and telegraph from a point on the western boundary of the said State of Iowa, to be fixed by the President of the United States, upon the most direct and practicable route, to be subject to his approval, so as to form a connection with the lines of said company at some point on the one hundredth meridian of longitude aforesaid, from the point of commencement on the western boundary of the State of Iowa, upon the same terms and conditions, in all respects, as are contained in this act for the construction of the said railroad and telegraph first mentioned; and the said Union Pacific Railroad Company shall complete one hundred miles of the road and telegraph in this section provided for in two years after filing their assent to the conditions of this act, as by the terms of this act required, and at the rate of one hundred miles per year thereafter, until the whole is completed: Provided, That a failure upon the part of said company to make said connection in the time aforesaid, and to perform the obligations imposed on said company by this section, and to operate said road in the same manner as the main line shall be operated, shall forfeit to the Government of the United States all the rights, privileges, and franchises granted to and conferred on said company by this act.”

And whereas the President of the United States did, on the 11th day of March, A. D. 1864, make the following communication to the Senate, viz:

“To the Senate of the United States :

“In compliance with a resolution of the Senate of the 1st instant, respecting the points of commencement of the Union Pacific Railroad on the one hundredth degree of west longitude, and of the branch road from the western boundary of Iowa to the said one hundredth degree of longitude, I transmit the accompanying report from the Secretary of the Interior, containing the information called for.

“I deem it proper to add that, on the 17th day of November last, an executive order was made upon this subject, and delivered to the vice-president of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, which fixed the point on the western boundary of the State of Iowa from which the company should construct their branch road to the one hundredth degree of west longitude, and declared it to be within the limits of the township, in Iowa, opposite the town of Omaha, in Nebraska. Since then the company has represented to me that, upon actual surveys made, it has determined upon the precise point of departure of their said branch road from the Missouri River, and located the same as described in the accompanying report of the Secretary of the Interior, which point is within the limits designated in the order of November last; and inasmuch as that order is not of record in any of the executive departments, and the company having desired a more definite one, I have made the order, of which a copy is herewith, and caused the same to be filed in the Department of the Interior.

“ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

“EXECUTIVE MANSION, March 9, 1864.”

indicating that said eastern terminus was, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1863, fixed by him “within the limits of the township, in Iowa, opposite the town of Omaha, in Nebraska,” and that the precise point had been fixed, by actual survey, within said township, in Iowa, by the said company.

And whereas it is provided in the fifteenth section of said act of July 1, 1862—

“That any other railroad company now incorporated, or hereafter to be incorporated, shall have the right to connect their road with the road and branches provided for by this act, at such places and upon such just and equitable terms as the President of the United States shall prescribe.”

And whereas the ninth section of an act amendatory of said act, approved July 2, A. D. 1864, provides —

“That, to enable any one of said corporations to make convenient and necessary connections with other roads, it is hereby authorized to establish and maintain all necessary ferries upon and across the Missouri River, and other rivers which its road may pass in its course; and authority is hereby given said corporation to construct bridges over said Missouri River, and all other rivers, for the convenience of said road: Provided, That any bridge or bridges it may construct over the Missouri River, or any other navigable river on the line of said road, shall be constructed with suitable and proper draws for the passage of steamboats, and shall be built, kept, and maintained at the expense of said company, in such manner as not to impair the usefulness of said river for navigation to any greater extent than such structures of the most approved character necessarily do.” * * * *

And whereas the twelfth section of said act of July 1, 1862, provides that—

“The whole line of said roads and branches and telegraph shall be operated and used for all purposes of communication, travel, and transportation, so far as the public and Government are concerned, as one connected, continuous line.”

And whereas the fifteenth section of the said act of July 2, 1864, provides—

“That the several companies authorized to construct the aforesaid roads are hereby required to operate and use said roads and telegraph for all purposes of communication, travel, and transportation, so far as the public and the Government are concerned, as one continuous line.” * * * *

And whereas the act approved February 24, 1871, authorizing said

Union Pacific Railroad Company to sell bonds to aid it in the construction of a bridge across the Missouri River, at the eastern terminus of said road, provides "that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to change the eastern terminus of the Union Pacific Railroad from the place where it is now fixed under existing laws, nor to release said Union Pacific Railroad Company or its successors from its obligations as established by existing laws;" and "that Congress shall at all times have power to regulate said bridge and the rates for the transportation of freight and passengers over the same, and the local travel herein provided for."

And whereas it is alleged that said Union Pacific Railroad Company has violated its charter by refusing to permit railroads in Iowa to connect with its eastern terminus, on the western boundary of Iowa; and by refusing to receive, at said terminus, passengers and freight, and to transport the same over its roads and branches as a "connected and continuous road" westward, and also by refusing to deliver passengers and freight passing eastward at its eastward terminus as aforesaid, to the great inconvenience and injury of the public: Therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Committee on the Pacific Railroad be instructed to inquire into the truth of the said allegations; what, if any, additional legislation is necessary to protect the public interests.

The House of Representatives has passed the following resolution, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate:

Resolved, (the Senate concurring,) That the Federal Congress has heard with profound regret of the demise of Professor S. F. B. Morse. His fame is not merely national, or American, but world-wide. His distinguished and varied abilities have contributed more than those of any other intellect of our generation to the development and progress of the practical arts. His invention of the electro-magnetic telegraph, which was at first received with incredulity by the people, and with the meager favor, if not distrust, of the American Congress, has, during his life, attained an eminence which, so long as human thought is disseminated by the lightning, will form an ever-growing tribute and enduring monument to his fame. While his name will be forever associated with those of Güttenberg, Watt, Fulton, and others, who made science civilizing, useful, and benign, his purity of private life, his loftiness of scientific aim, and his resolute faith in truth, render it eminently proper that the Representatives of the people, and the Senators of the States, should solemnly testify to his worth and greatness.

The President of the United States approved and signed, the second instant, the following acts:

H. R. 166. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to authorize protection to be given to citizens of the United States who may discover deposits of guano," approved August 18, 1856.

So the motion to adjourn was not agreed to.

The question recurring on the motion of Mr. Howe,

Mr. Pomeroy here made a point of order, viz, that the Senate having made no provision in its rules for compelling the attendance of absent Senators, which could be made only by a quorum of the body, it was not in the power of a minority of the Senate, by adopting the proposed order, to change the existing rule on the subject, and that the motion of Mr. Howe was, therefore, not in order.

The presiding officer (Mr. Ferry, of Michigan, in the chair) sustained the point of order, and ruled the motion of Mr. Howe not in order.

On motion by Mr. Pomeroy, at 10 o'clock and 15 minutes p. m.,

"The Senator from Pennsylvania has just told us that he had ceased to struggle against that measure. Now, while it might be a little more convenient and a little more agreeable to the feelings of some of us to have the Senator from Ohio present when that bill is considered, what is the consideration which calls upon the Senate to proceed with the bill moved by the Senator from Pennsylvania?
